

Deep fried mars bar

Once upon a time a seagull called Jackie Chan wanted to go to Mars because he was craving a deep fried mars bar. So he grabbed his wallet and went to a birthday party to steal a pink helium balloon. He waddled outside with his pretty pink balloon, held onto the string with his strong feathers and floated up to the sky. He broke through the clouds, burst out of the atmosphere and arrived in space.

Suddenly the balloon popped and Jackie was left floating around in space. In the far, far, far distance he spotted a large red planet. He tried to float towards it by flapping his wings. But then, dangerous aliens birdnapped him and took him to the moon.

Luckily Jackie Chan fought him off like a kung fu master and took control of their spaceship. He was starving by the time he got to Mars. He searched Mars for a deep fried Mars bar but had no luck. Jackie then realised he could have saved himself all this bother and gone to the local chippie. But then the aliens took over the spaceship and crashed it in Jackie Chan's local chippie and he flew out of the spaceship and he saw a deep fried mars bar and and wept tears of relief and delight.